Dear Parents,

The TOM preparations have started! Currently, students are working on a practice Long Term Challenge so that they understand the structure and expectations when they receive the official challenge. Each team has an Edmodo account, monitored by me, to communicate about this challenge.

To help us prepare for the Spontaneous Challenge, I have enrolled our teams in an incursion run by Tournament of Minds. In this incursion, students will be introduced to the fundamental concepts of the Spontaneous Challenge. They will practise using the team roles and thinking tools that the judges will be looking for on the Challenge Day. They will develop a clear understanding of the scoring process. I think this is a fantastic opportunity for the teams to develop their spontaneous skills and learn about what the judges will be looking for.

The incursion will be held on Monday 19th June from 1.00pm – 3.00pm. Students will have time to eat their lunch beforehand.

The cost is $10.00 per student and it is not covered by the excursion levy. Please return the permission slip and payment by Thursday 15th June.

Please contact me if you have any questions.
